The advertisement is a split-panel image. The left panel, labeled 'UV CAMERA', shows a woman's face with a dark, almost black appearance, indicating that the sunscreen is visible under UV light. The right panel, labeled 'NORMAL CAMERA', shows the same woman's face with a natural, clear complexion, indicating that the sunscreen is invisible on the skin. The background is a gradient of light blue and white. The top left corner features the La Roche-Posay logo and name. The top right corner features a 'n1 dermatologist recommended' badge and the text 'A BETTER LIFE FOR SENSITIVE SKIN'. The bottom center contains the product name 'ANTHELIOS SHAKA FLUID spf50+' and the tagline 'ULTRA HIGH UVA PROTECTION'. Below this, it says 'VISIBLE UNDER UV CAMERA' and 'INVISIBLE ON SKIN'. A small image of the product bottle is shown in the bottom right corner. At the very bottom, there is a small asterisked note: '*Survey of the dermatologists in Brazil, between 2018 and 2019, among 333 dermatologists in Brazil.'
